Local Girl Wins Honor

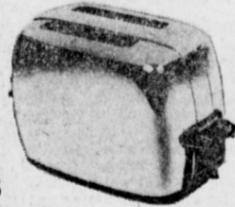

Pamela Frank, 806 Hadler St., Torrance, has won signal honor at UCLA by being accepted for membership in the Helen Matthewson Club, oldest of the cooperative groups living at the campus.

The Helen Matthewson Club was founded in 1923 by the late Helen Matthewson Laughlin, nationally known dean of women at UCLA. The club owns its own group living quarters at 820 Levering Ave., near the campus, where the members live cooperatively, including preparation of meals, other dormitory duties, and governing of their own organization.

Only young women who have been considered on the basis of exceptionally high standards are accepted and membership is considered an honor.

Miss Frank attended San Pedro High School where she was prominent in student activities. She is majoring in political science at UCLA.
